PROCEEDINGS OF THE CITY BOARD OF TRUSTEES

The city board of trustees met in regular session in the city hall last Monday night.

A petition signed by employees of the Pacific Coast Steel Co., the Schaw-Batcher Co. and business men on San Bruno road, asking that California avenue and its extension, Cedar avenue, between San Bruno road to and across the Southern Pacific right of way, be improved and electric lights installed so that the workers can go to and from the factories safely, was received.

Referred to City Attorney Coleberd. A communication was received from Dr. H. G. Plymire calling the board's attention to the bad condition of San Bruno road at its intersection with Lux avenue, owing to sewage being permitted to run on the surface of the ground.

Referred to City Superintendent of Streets Kneese for investigation.

A communication was received from the South San Francisco Land and Improvement Co. asking that it be given control of the improvements to be made on Miller and Baden avenues, by which the work can be done by private contract signed by the property owners along those streets.

Upon motion of Trustee Holston, seconded by Trustee Kelley, a resolution was adopted granting the request. Several claims against the city were allowed and ordered paid.

Upon motion of Trustee Holston, seconded by Trustee Kelley, Ordinance No. 63, prohibiting smoking in auditoriums, theatres, rooms in which motion pictures are exhibited, public waiting rooms and upon the floor or steps of street railway cars, was adopted.

Trustee McGovern introduced an ordinance providing for a fire limit and the character of buildings to be erected in that limit. The boundaries will be from a point at the center line of Division street at Lux avenue, along Lux avenue to Linden, along Linden avenue to Maple, along Maple to Baden, along Baden to the line between lots 22 and 23, in block 123, then south to Railroad avenue, along Railroad avenue to the right of way of the Southern Pacific to Division street, along Division street to Lux at point of beginning. New buildings within those limits must be constructed of reinforced concrete, stone or brick, except those used exclusively for residence purposes.

Laid over for adoption at next meeting.

Trustee Kelley introduced a resolution ordering work on Division street, between Grand and Armour avenues, and on Miller, Lux, California and Armour avenues, between San Bruno road and Division street.

The work will consist of oiled macadam for the street, concrete curbs and artificial stone sidewalks where not already constructed.

Upon motion of Trustee Holston, seconded by Trustee McGovern, the resolution was adopted.

The balance of the session was taken up in inspecting maps for a general sewer system by members of the board. Adjournment was taken until next Monday evening.

LOCAL CHAMBER OF COMMERCE ADOPTS BY-LAWS

The newly-organized Chamber of Commerce of the City of South San Francisco held a meeting in the city hall last Wednesday evening when a preamble and by-laws was adopted.

A communication was received from the Sempervirens Club of California in reference to a bill providing that the state shall build a scenic highway into Redwood Grove, Santa Cruz county.

The bill was indorsed and the secretary instructed to communicate with Senator W. R. Flint and Assemblyman Henry Ward Brown and ask them to support the bill in the legislature.

Assembly bills 1988, and 1989, providing that publicity shall be given to the contents of cans of paint manufactured in this state were objected to for the reason that it is believed that the adoption of such bills will be a menace and work a great injury to one of the principal manufacturing industries of this state located in this city.

The secretary was instructed to communicate with Senator W. R. Flint and Assemblyman Henry Ward Brown and ask them to investigate the bills carefully and work against their adoption by the state legislature.

A preamble and by-laws was adopted for the governing of the organization.

It provides that the Chamber of Commerce of the City of South San Francisco shall be the name of the organization; annual meetings shall be held on the first Wednesday of each month; the board of directors shall hold regular meetings every Wednesday; the duties of officers and board of directors are defined; dues shall be 50 cents per month, payable in advance quarterly.

Judge E. E. Cunningham, W. H. Coffinberry and E. I. Woodman were appointed as a committee to district this city and select citizens to canvass the districts and endeavor to induce citizens favorable to the county highway bonds proposition to vote on election day, April 8th next.

W. H. Coffinberry, Jos. Walker and J. W. Coleberd were appointed as members of a finance committee.

F. A. Cunningham, chairman of the board of directors, reported that arrangements are being made for the construction of several bungalows for factory employees in this city who wish to rent them.

The secretary was directed to communicate with the manufacturing companies whose plants are located in this city and ask them to furnish a list of names and addresses of their employees and character of house they each wished to rent.

Adjournment was then taken to meet again next Wednesday evening.

The Hub has received a large assortment of ladies' house dresses, girls' dresses and little boys' suits of good quality; will stand washing excellently, and what's more, the prices are right. Call and look at these goods. Adv.

Within the next three weeks, spur tracks will be laid by the Southern Pacific at the foot of Linden avenue for the new factory to be located there. Plans for the plant are near completion and ground will be broken in the immediate future.

The Enterprise office has received a lot of flower and vegetable seed for distribution from Congressman E. A. Hayes, representing this district in Washington. Citizens wishing to plant them will receive a package of each by calling at this office.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the South San Francisco Land and Improvement Company last Monday, the same officers of the past year were re-elected for the ensuing year, with one exception. Fred Washburn was elected to succeed Henry T. Scott as director.

The twelfth annual ball of Tippecanoe Tribe, No. 111, Imp. O. R. M., will be given Saturday evening, April 5th, in Metropolitan Hall. Dancing all night. Geo. E. ENTERTAINMENT AND SOCIAL IN METROPOLITAN HALL

The entertainment and social to be given by the Catholic ladies of South San Francisco, in Metropolitan Hall on Saturday evening March 29th, will be a big event. The well-known Detweiler Brothers, Dan Casey, Tom Cone, Ray Cone, Miss May Cone, Mrs. H. Richards and others, all remarkable for histrionic ability, will assist the local Sunday school children. Many lovely little girls and boys of South San Francisco, trained by the talented Mrs. H. Richards, will appear in two pretty numbers. The fancy dancing will be very beautiful and the singing sweet and charming. A select union orchestra will play for the social following the entertainment, during which the ladies, with pleasant smiles, will serve refreshments. The program will begin promptly at 8 o'clock.

very near to a gasoline road roller which was producing noises. Suddenly the horse turned abruptly to the left and drew the wagon violently against the electric light pole. At this junction Convery thought that the safest place for him was on the ground. He jumped and sustained very serious injuries to his right foot. John D. Willard and J. W. Coleberd are Convery's attorneys.

An inquest was held here yesterday over a man's skeleton found on the Burr ranch, two miles from Baden station, but no information was given that might solve the mystery of who the unfortunate man was, or how he met his death. The skeleton was found by the University of California students Saturday. Coroner H. G. Plymire was directed to the place, accompanied by E. N. Brown, lessor of the ranch. It lay on a creek bottom partly in water. The bones were scattered about. One shoe was found about 150 feet away. This shoe is the only thing that might lead to the investigation of the mystery.

The death of Mrs. Henry Crane last Sunday was a sad surprise to her friends in this city. A woman of fine character, she was admired and respected by all who knew her. Mrs. Crane came here as a bride four years ago. Four weeks ago she became the mother of a baby girl. A week before her death she was one of a party visiting the Cliff House where she contracted a severe chill which ultimately caused her death. Her remains were sent to relatives in Elko, Nevada. Besides her husband, father and two brothers, Mrs. Crane leaves a daughter four weeks old. Mrs. Max Schaefer, formally of this city has taken the child for the present.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE COUNTY BOARD OF SUPERVISORS

The county board of supervisors met in regular session in Redwood City last Monday.

A communication was received from the State Highway Commission stating that the state highway between a point a short distance south of Baden station approximately along Mission road to San Francisco would be built when funds from the sale of bonds were received and provided the authorities of Daly City, the board of supervisors and others duly assist in the matter of rights of way, bridges, etc., as they have heretofore agreed with said commission.

The communication was ordered filed. A petition for additional street lights in San Bruno was granted. The resignation of the inspector of the district, L. J. Flanders, was accepted.

Surveyor Neuman stated that he had had a conference with Mr. Ahern of the Southern Pacific Company with reference to rights of way necessary to rebuild San Bruno road from South San Francisco north to San Francisco, and was not satisfied with the offers made. It was specified that the county relinquish its ownership of the old San Bruno road.

It was decided that the members of the board accompanied by the surveyor or will come to this city next Monday afternoon and go over the ground with the railroad officials.

A petition from citizens of San Bruno asking that Scott street and Huntington avenue be extended westerly across the railroad was granted.

DEATH OF ESTIMABLE CATHOLIC SISTER

The citizens of South San Francisco extend their deepest sympathies to Mrs. Ambrose McSweeney in her sorrow on the death of her sister, Sister Mary Stanislaus of the order of St. Dominic. Sister Mary Stanislaus was much loved, not only in the order, but by all who knew her. That those who loved her might pay their last tribute a request, cabled to Rome that her funeral be private. Many friends from this city attended.

She died suddenly on March 16th, after a very brief illness of pneumonia, at the Immaculate Conception Academy in San Francisco, at Twenty-fourth and Guerrero streets.

Sister Mary was a native of San Jose and daughter of Mrs. Jane O'Rourke of that city. She was educated at the Notre Dame Convent there. She took the holy orders fifteen years ago.

Besides Mrs. Ambrose McSweeney of this city, decedent leaves her mother and three brothers, John, Frank and Arthur O'Rourke.

HOW TO CURE DISEASED TREES

Some Cases Are Hopeless, but Majority Can Be Saved.

NECESSARY TOOLS ARE FEW

A Gouge, Mallet, Pruning Knife, Pot of Coal Tar and Paint Brush the First Essentials—Ladders, Saws, Etc., Are Convenient Auxiliary Instruments.

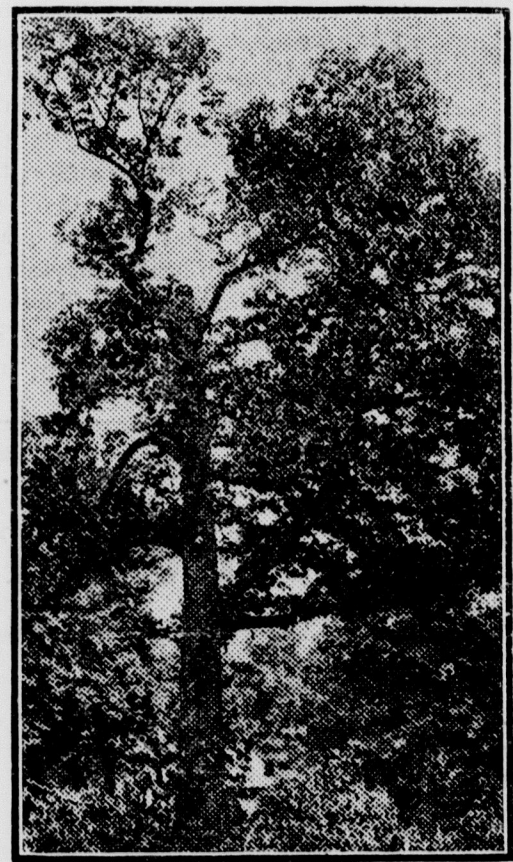

By ROY G. PIERCE,
Tree Surgeon Pennsylvania Chestnut Blight Commission.

What is to be done with diseased trees to bring them back to health or to prevent them from infecting other healthy trees near by? To bring the trees back to health implies that disease can be cured. This is not always true, for the tree may be already nearly girdled when the disease is first noticed. A tree taken in time, however, may have its life prolonged indefinitely, though it may have the blight in some portion of it every year.

Professor J. Franklin Collins, forest pathologist in the department of agriculture, in farmers' bulletin 467, on "The Control of the Chestnut Bark Disease," gives the following: "The essentials for the work are a gouge, a mallet, a pruning knife, a pot of coal tar and a paint brush. In the case of a tall tree a ladder or rope or both may be necessary, but under no circumstances should tree climbers be used, as they cause wounds which are very favorable places for infection. Sometimes an ax, a saw and a long handled tree pruner are convenient auxiliary instruments.

All of the discolored diseased areas in the tree should be removed. Small branches or twigs nearly girdled are best cut off. Cankers in the main trunk or on limbs should be gouged out. Carefulness is the prime requisite in this work. If the disease has completely killed the cambium the bark should be entirely removed, as well as several layers of wood beneath the canker. By frequent examination, however, diseased spots may be found on the tree where the mycelium of the fungus is still in the upper layers of the bark. It is not necessary then to cut clear to the wood, but the discolored outer bark may be removed and a layer of healthy inner bark left beneath the cut. The sap may still flow through this layer. The border of the diseased area is quite distinct, but cutting should not stop here, but should be continued beyond the discolored portion into healthy bark at least an inch. The tools should be thoroughly sterilized by immersion into a solution of 1.000 bichloride of mercury or 5 per cent solution of formaldehyde.

It has been shown that a cut made pointed at the top and bottom heals much faster than one rounded. The edges of the cut should be made with

FOUNDERS OF THE CITY OF SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO

THE SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO LAND AND IMPROVEMENT COMPANY designed in its original plan to make of South San Francisco a great manufacturing center. With that object in view, it originally purchased 3500 acres of land in San Mateo County, on the bay front, five miles south of the City of San Francisco. Since the original purchase, the company has added greatly to its holdings by the purchase of large tracts of adjoining lands, giving to it a perfect environment for the complete development of a great manufacturing city.

The faith which this Company had in its enterprise has been manifest to everyone by the large expenditure it has made in the development of this property. Every foundation which goes to make a perfect condition for manufacture has been already solidly installed, and is a rapidly growing city; it is a railroad terminal; it is on the main line of the Southern Pacific Railroad, and accessible to all railroads; has deep water communication; owns and operates for its industries a railroad connecting with the Southern Pacific and the water front; has electric street car service from factory to Town, and direct to San Francisco; has an Electric Light and Power Company; owns an independent Water Works, and has an abundance of fresh water for factory and house; has wharves and docks; a perfect sewerage system; a Bank and a Town Hall; and a population of over 3000 people an extensive and fine residence district, where everyone may secure lands at reasonable prices and on favorable terms, as homes for themselves and their families.

FACTORY SITES

can be obtained from the South San Francisco Land and Improvement Company on most reasonable terms.

The completion of the Bay Shore Tunnels has placed South San Francisco on the main lines of the Southern Pacific Railroad, and forty passenger trains per day connect it with the outside world.

Owing to the completion of the Dumbarton Bridge and Cutoff, South San Francisco will soon have all railroads which center in San Francisco passing through its midst.

Many industries are already established here, chief of which are the Western Meat Company, the Wool Pullery, the Soap Works, the Steiger Pottery Works, the W. P. Fuller White Lead Works, the South San Francisco Lumber and Supply Company, the Pacific Coast Steel Company, the Pacific Car and Equipment Company, the Standard Corrugated Pipe Works, and other enterprises, all of which are in operation to-day. The Meese Gottfried Machinery Company and the Enterprise Foundry of San Francisco have each recently made purchases of land, and South San Francisco is plainly destined to fulfill all that its promoters had hoped.

The spirit of progress and development of a community is born in the united effort of that community in one direction. "A city divided against itself cannot stand." One whose citizens are working against each other stands still. As Hugh Chalmers, the noted automobile manufacturer, says, "Don't get into a rut. The simple difference between a rut and a grave is that the grave is a little deeper, and if you fall into either, you're a dead one. Knockers in a community hold that community back, for they not only knock at home, but they knock elsewhere, sometimes to boosters of other communities. The influence this breeds is obvious." If you do not respect your self, you cannot expect others to respect you. The same principle holds good with your city. If you do not respect your city, you cannot expect others to respect it. If you live where you earn your bread and butter it is your duty and should be your pride to do your little share for the progress and betterment of your city.

The memorial committee appointed by Colma Vista Grande Aerie, No. 1848, Antone Sturla chairman, met with the committee of South City Aerie, No. 1473, Paul Ferron chairman, Tuesday evening last. T. C. McGovern was appointed secretary of the united committee. Appearances would indicate that the memorial service to be held on April 6th will eclipse any service previously held. Offers of assistance from various sources were received and acted on. Sunday April 6th, will be a great day for Eagledom. The various places of business will in all probability be closed between the hours of 2 and 4 p. m. on that day, as heretofore. All fraternalists, by whatever name they may be called, are cordially invited to attend this service, thus showing their allegiance to the fraternal principle, one for all, and all for one.

An Idea For the Slender.

Many girls and women who are unnaturally thin would be glad to hear of an idea that can be quite simply carried out which would give their figures just that rounded appearance that is lacking. It is a form of brassiere with a number of tiny frills of cambric, one overlapping the other, covering the upper part of the bodice and gradually tapering off lower down.

WELL-KNOWN LOCAL WOMAN DIES

Many sorrowing friends of the late Mrs. T. Bresnan assembled at the beautiful flower-filled chapel at Cypress Lawn cemetery last Tuesday to pay their last loving tribute. Mrs. T. Bresnan was born at Crescent Mills, Plumas county, where she spent her girlhood. For the last ten years she had lived in this community and has endeared herself in the hearts of all with whom she came in contact. She was a true and noble little woman and an active spirit in all progressive movements. She was associate matron of Ruth Chapter, No. 305, O. E. S., until her health demanded her resignation. After five months in St. Winifred Hospital, San Francisco, she returned apparently well and her sudden death came as a complete surprise and shock. Mrs. Bresnan leaves her husband Timothy Bresnan of this city, foreman of the Steiger Terra Cotta Works, her mother Mrs. Mary Frohlich, two brothers, George and August C. Frohlich and a sister, Mrs. C. E. Wright.

AN IMPORTANT EVENT

Pete, called the writer to one side and said, "Harry, it's a boy." Of course congratulations followed. Pete was asked if it was a heavy weight. In reply Pete said that business had been of such a nature that he had been too busy to perform the usual function of weighing in. Then the suggestion arose, "But you do this in your regular business. Why not in this?" His reply was suggestive. "With our usual luck, he will have time to grow, and while there is a Pete in the business, I am inclined to name him Paul." This would certainly be a great combination, and with our growing city may become the trademark of the future, and it may be that the stamp, Pete and Paul, though it may be a rubber stamp, may be a stamp for all that. Of course, we followed with the usual suggestion that the name of Lind, Jr. be presented to the various junior branches of fraternal orders. Get the name in early, Pete, and avoid the rush.

The vice commission investigations are revealing that thousands of girls are being underpaid in the eastern establishments, and that the wages paid them scarcely keep body and soul together. Aside from the girl question itself there is one commercial phase of the whole problem that deserves attention, and that is that the big houses which are failing to give the girl employes an adequate wage are found to be the mail order houses, which by reason of the distress heaped upon their employes can successfully compete against the local merchant, who pays his help a living wage, helps build up his home town, pays rent, contributes to the town illumination and is always on deck when anything for the public good is wanted of him. Sears, Roebuck & Co. of Chicago, does a mail order business. It employs 4732 women and girls at an average weekly pay of $9.12 a week. Hundreds of these of course get less than they can actually eat on, buy clothes and find a decent place to sleep. The president of this company on the witness stand admitted that his company paid dividends of $7,000,000 and could have paid higher wages and still paid a $2,000,000 dividend. This company has hundreds of catalogues in this county. Many residents of Amador county spent money with this company. The few pennies they save, it they save a cent, contribute to the causes which have prompted the efforts of the vice commission. This phase of the problem has escaped the attention of most people and with their eyes opened now by the widespread publicity being given the subject by the press in its report of the vice commission it is probable that the mail order business will lose some of its alluring features, and the home merchant, against whom this business is directed, will be given greater consideration by mail order patrons, whose dimes went to the coffers of the rich at the expense of the girls in their employ.—Ione Echo.

Help to the Housewife.

When asked how she accomplished so much work so easily the mother of a large family replied, "I work by schedule."

That is the secret of all easy work. If you live in a nerve racking rush try what keeping a schedule will do for you.

Buy a notebook and bend opposite pages with the day and date. Before going to bed plan and write down the work for the next day. In the evening sum up what has been accomplished.

It does not take long to keep this simple schedule, but it is surprising how quick you learn system from it. Busy women go so far as to plan certain duties for certain hours.

Do not plan to do too much in one day, for then the opposite page is a disappointment which spurs you to unwise efforts or needless discouragement. What is left undone one day may be carried over to next day's planning page as a jog against procrastination.

Reading over such a notebook is an object lesson to the shiftless housewife who works by fits and starts, gets nothing accomplished, has no time for leisure and ends by being a nuisance to herself and a burden to her family.

ELOPERS IN TOILS AS WHITE SLAVERS

Diggs and Caminetti Rearrested Under Mann Act

After being released on their own recognizance in the Superior Court of Sacramento, Maury I. Diggs and F. Drew Caminetti, wife deserters, who eloped to Reno with two prominent Sacramento sorority girls, were immediately rearrested by United States Marshal T. F. Kiernan on Federal warrants charging them with being white slavers in violation of the Mann act. A few hours later, under instructions from United States District Attorney McNab, the two men were taken before Justice Clarken, who swore to their bondsmen. Bail in the amount of $10,000 each was supplied by friends, and they were released from custody and ordered to appear before United States Commissioner Krull in San Francisco on March 27th to answer to white slave charges.

When Diggs and Caminetti left the County Jail in custody of deputy sheriffs, they were compelled to run a gamut of cameras. A curious crowd followed the men to the Court building, and by the time the proceedings were begun there was a line from the doorway of the Court to the sidewalk. Not a woman was in the crowd.

TERSE CALIFORNIA NEWS

An aged "wild man," whose presence, scantily attired, has caused a miniature reign of terror in the residential district along the Coyote River, in the southern end of San Jose, for several days, is in prison as the result of a score of complaints to the police.

The new concrete bridge recently erected at a cost of $42,351 across the Tuolumne river two miles from Modesto was partially destroyed when lateral No. 1 of the Modesto irrigation district broke and washed out the concrete abutment of the approach to the span. It is estimated that the repairs necessary to again put the bridge in commission will cost between $5000 and $6000.

Twenty-three to eleven was the vote in the Senate to pass the Owens bill, making the holding as well as the selling of a lottery ticket of any nature a misdemeanor. This was the first bill that there has been any argument upon, and several Senators talked against it, as they held it would refer to church bazaars, trading stamps and all sorts of charitable schemes to raise money for worthy purposes.

A fire which had its origin in the shavings dump at the rear of the mechanics building of the Boys' Polytechnic High School group at Riverside, resulted in the almost total destruction of that structure. The building loss is estimated at about $45,000, and the manual training equipment at $10,000, with insurance of $10,000. The building was used for the first time this year, and is one of the group for which $250,000 in bonds was voted two years ago.

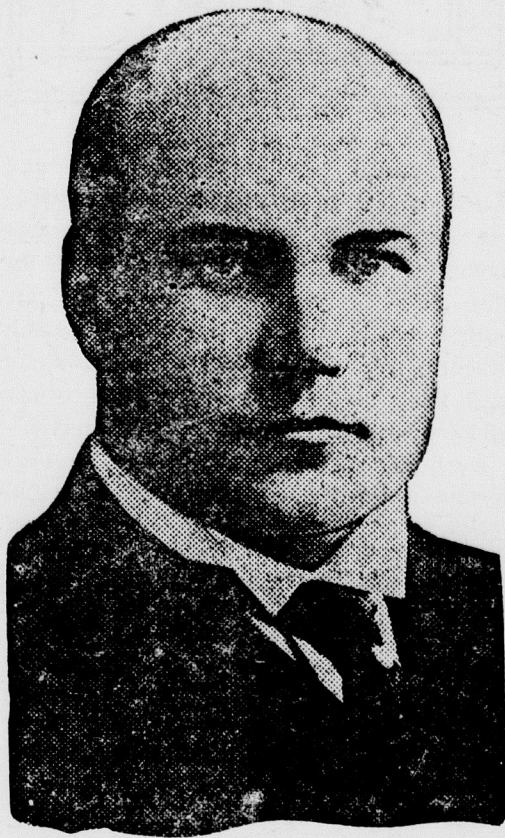

Reorganization of the Senate for the Sixty-third Congress resulted in loss to the California Senators, Perkins and Works, of chairmanships of two important committees. Perkins succeeded as chairman of the Naval Affairs Committee by Tillman of South Carolina and Works gives way to Thornton of Louisiana as chairman of Fisheries. Perkins, however, receives the chairmanship of Railroads, almost as important a committee as Naval Affairs; but Works was not given any chairmanship.

Sheriff Eggers' plan to have a night school at the County Jail at Ingleside for the male prisoners who are held on misdemeanor charges is favorably regarded by Dr. d'Ancona, president of the San Francisco Board of Education, who went to the jail with the Sheriff and questioned the would-be pupils. Fifty-four men of various ages were in the gathering that met President d'Ancona, and when he asked how many of them would like to take up reading, writing and arithmetic all of them raised their hands.

Samuel B. Axtell, former Lodi editor, now serving a life sentence at Folsom for the murder of Charles Sollars, has been locked in the prison dungeon, according to information received at the Sheriff's office. Beyond stating that Axtell had violated one of the prison rules, the warden refused to discuss the matter. Axtell was formerly editor and owner of a newspaper in San Joaquin county. He was prominent in social and fraternal circles, and his shooting of Sollars, a capitalist, about a year ago, to avenge a personal grudge, caused a sensation.

Mayor of San Bernardino, and six of the thirteen candidates for other important city offices are disqualified as the result of the discovery that the wrong figures were taken as the basis for the number of signatures required to get their names on the ballot for the election on April 14. The situation is declared to be unprecedented in the history of municipal elections in California. The city is in a political turmoil as a result of the wholesale disqualifications, and attorneys representing the candidates who had an insufficient number of names on their petitions admitted that there was no chance for the correction of the mistakes.

Carrying a message from the Los Angeles Ad Club to the San Francisco club, a message aimed to advertise the wonders of California outdoors, Miss Grace L. Brown and Miss Margaret Seaborough, Los Angeles society girls and university graduates, left Los Angeles to walk up the coast to the bay city. Both the young women are experienced "hikers." They plan to walk eighteen miles a day, completing the journey in easy stages rather than attempt any "record." At every hamlet and city where they stop they will be officially received, by prior arrangement, and they expect their long tramp to do much to attract country-wide attention to California climate and its joys.

PARCEL POST'S WORK INCREASING

February Business 40 Per Cent Larger Than January

Parcel post business last month was almost 40 per cent greater than in January, say reports to Postmaster General Burleson. In February 50,000,000 parcel post packages were handled, an increase of 10,000,000 over the previous month, but as February contained three days less than January, the real gain in the business was almost 40 per cent.

As in January, the three cities doing the largest parcel post business in February were Chicago, New York and Boston in the order named. Chicago sent and received 5,167,000 packages; New York, 4,102,000 and Boston 1,326,000, most of them in each case being of the second class. Cleveland, Philadelphia and St. Louis each handled over 1,000,000 packages. Other cities in order of business follow:

Jersey City, Brooklyn, Detroit, Cincinnati, Baltimore, Nashville, Kansas City, Mo., Buffalo, San Francisco, Pittsburgh and Minneapolis.

The reports to the Postmaster-General indicate that the mails are moving with their usual dispatch, that the business in farm products is growing and that merchants seem to be preparing to extend their business into new fields.

Lieutenant-Governor Barrat O'Hara, chairman of the Senate committee investigating the "white slave" evil in Illinois, announced that he had received letters from Governors of twelve States offering Governors of with him to suppress the traffic in women and kindred evils. The Governors from the following States have so far responded: New York, Massachusetts, Wisconsin, Iowa, Virginia, South Dakota, South Carolina, Mississippi, Michigan, Kentucky, Georgia, Wyoming and West Virginia.

TEACHERS PAY FAT FEES TO AGENCIES

Startling Facts Brought by Investigation

Information showing that the public school teachers of California pay between $40,000 and $50,000 annually to "private employment agencies" for the privilege of securing positions to teach was laid before the Senate Committee on Labor and Capital in Sacramento during a hearing on a bill by Senator Lyon of Los Angeles, to regulate employment agencies.

The measure aims a direct blow at the teachers' agencies by prohibiting the collection of fees for placing public school teachers. Several representatives of teachers' agencies were present to offer their side of the argument, and at their request final action on the bill was deferred.

H. A. Scheel, statistician of the State Labor Commission, told the committee that it was the practice of the agencies to charge teachers 5 per cent of their first year's salary, and that collusion between the agencies and school principals was frequent.

It was shown that the agencies fill about 20 per cent of the 4700 vacancies that occur annually in the public schools. A bill to create a State registrar of teachers, who shall perform the same work as a public service at the cost to the State has been introduced by Senator Avey.

HOME TRADE TALK.

Have something to say. Say it. Stop talking.

A man who does big things is too busy to talk about them.

A tactful man can pull the stinger from a bee without getting stung.

An appeal to reason is oftentimes less effective than an appeal to the pocketbook.

Every man looks with suspicion upon any plan necessitating his giving you money. He has to be shown.

The truth is mighty and must prevail. Just tell the truth, but tell it as if you yourself believed it too.

Don't fight your competitor by cutting prices. Instead go over and have a heart to heart talk with him.

Your signboard must read, "This Road to Wealth With Safety," and it must stand where all can see it.

"Talk is cheap." Therefore don't hand out too much of it. It makes you and your proposition look cheap.

You've got to know your proposition from A to Z. You've got to know it like a young mother knows baby talk.

Correct mistakes of clerks or delivery wagon drivers promptly and cheerfully and customers will then forget to lose their temper. Wrangling over the matters is as bad as refusing to do anything at all.

HANDLING THE SMOKE

PROBLEM OF TODAY.

State Universities and Government
Working to Lessen the Evil.

One of the greatest problems of today is that of preventing the enormous wastes due to smoke and the resultant loss of money and destruction of vegetation and also to lessen the injury to the health of human beings and the number of deaths among animals which come from its action. Discussing this matter in an article in the Popular Mechanics Magazine, William D. Harkins says:

"It is strange that so little is known in regard to smoke, but that the importance of such knowledge is just beginning to be understood is shown by the very recent establishment in the University of Pittsburgh of a laboratory for the sole purpose of studying smoke from a scientific standpoint. In this laboratory, started less than a year ago, there are already twenty-five specialists studying this problem. The United States bureau of mines is also studying the problem of preventing the escape in cities of the black smoke due to coal, and it has just established a special laboratory in San Francisco for the purpose of studying the smoke given off by copper smelting plants. Chicago is conducting a study of its own problem. Much work is being done by industrial concerns, and abroad the problem is being scientifically attacked.

"That the work now being done is entirely inadequate may be seen when it is considered that the smoke inspector in the city of Chicago estimates that the damage caused annually in that city by the soot and other ingredients of smoke amounts to $50,000,000 in ruined merchandise, and on the same basis it is said that the damage in the entire United States would be about $600,000,000 in one year. This, however, does not by any means represent the entire loss, since the black soot which escapes and does a large part of the damage is really wasted coal, and it is estimated that the coal lost in the smoke amounts on the average to about 10 per cent of all that is used. In other words, the average purchaser of coal, when he pays $5 a ton for it, tosses 50 cents' worth out of the chimney unburned, to do damage to his neighbors, and then usually wastes a large proportion of the heat in the $4.50 worth that is left. When it is realized that the purchaser of this ton of coal is also paying for his share of the 300,000,000 tons of coal that are wasted in this country every year some comprehension may be gained of the magnitude of wastes of this nature."

NEW CORSET COVER.

For Wear With Thin, Summer Frocks.

THE LATEST BRASSIERE.

The latest brassiere, or corset cover, is seen in the illustration, a dainty affair of lace and all over eyelet embroidery.

The novelty of the design is found in the half length sleeves which are made in one with the waist.

For cool summer days, when one wants to wear a thin gown, this corset cover will be found very comfortable.

It's Smart For Summer.

A rich rose shade between cherry and cerise has been named in honor of Miss Eleanor Wilson, the daughter of President Wilson, and this shade promises to be very popular during the coming season, especially with the dark eyed young women, to whom it is especially becoming. The dainty gown of embroidered crape pictured here is covered or partly covered with one of the new three-quarter coats made of faint pink satin, on which are embroidered conventional roses in the vivid nellrose color. A pink silk and lace hat matches the pretty frock, and the boots are French heeled affairs of patent leather with dull kid buttoned tops.

A Clever Idea.

In the narrow, envelope shaped hand bags of the moment it is difficult to find those heavier things that slip down inside the bag. It takes quite five minutes to discover the whereabouts of a key in one's bag, and, as for finding those extra hairpins slipped in the bag for use in case of emergency, it is altogether impossible.

So a Baltimore girl has hit upon a clever scheme suggested by necessity. She has purchased a set of the tiny gold filled safety pins to be had in the shops, and with these she carefully pins to the lining of her bag near the top the various articles she wishes to reach in a hurry. She has a pin for her key, another for her shopping list and a third for samples and such things.

She doesn't have to burrow around in the bag to find what she wants, and the bag keeps its shape ever so much better as a result.

ALL THE SAME TO HIM.

He Was Willing to Let Matters Take Their Regular Course.

With Appomattox only a few days off the Federal and Confederate forces were daily drawing closer together, and cavalry squads of either side now and then picked up a few stragglers of the enemy. A group of Confederate troopers one afternoon captured a Yankee infantryman who wore a spick and span new uniform with bright new buttons all in their proper places and carried a new, clean, shiny musket. After the custom of war in such cases, they started for camp with their prisoner and began to guy him gently by way of passing the time. To their great surprise he could hardly understand them or they him.

"Where'd you come from, Yank?" they asked.

"Vom Prwoossia," he answered stolidly.

"How long you been in this country?"

"Zwei monat—maype drei monat."

"And you came down here to fight us?"

"Yah, for boundy," said the prisoner indifferently.

The Confederates decided to scare the Prussian and have a lot of fun.

"Look here," said their leader, "a Yankee soldier is all right, but a Dutch Yankee—bah! Say, do you know what we'll do with you, you — Dutch Yankee? We'll stand you up over a coffin at sunrise tomorrow and fill you full of lead!"

"Vell," said the German, with a placid shrug—"vell, voteffer iss der rwule!" —Harper's Weekly.

California had 555,554 persons of school age—from 6 to 14 years, inclusive—in 1910, of whom 361,077 attended school, according to the second population bulletin by the bureau of the census, recently issued in connection with the thirteenth enumeration. In addition to these 6788 under 6 and 9801 persons of 21 and over attended school. Of children between 6 and 14 years, inclusive, 86.9 per cent were in school.

Milady's Mirror

A Good Complexion.

In making up her mind that she wants to have a clear and beautiful complexion the average girl does not always think just what this means in the way of regular treatment. Of course when starting in she thinks she is going to take real care of her skin, and soon it will look like the other girl's whose complexion she so envies.

Perhaps all goes well for several nights until one evening, feeling especially tired, little Miss Would-Be-Beautiful thinks that it won't matter if she jumps into bed just this one night without first washing her face clean of all the day's dust and grime and of then rubbing cold cream into her cheeks to nourish them. She will do it all tomorrow night, and with this thought she contented herself as she slips between the snowy sheets.

But what a real mistake this girl is making! How can she expect to have a strawberry and cream complexion if she will not take the trouble to apply the treatment each night? It is everything in being on time all through one's whole life, and perhaps in nothing does this regularity mean so much as in the care of one's general looks. If a girl neglects her complexion or hair for one night the results are sure to be disastrous. Wake up, then, little girl, if you want to have that beautiful complexion that you envy in other girls. If a treatment is decided on it must be regular or no good results will come from it.

Besides applying cream to the face at a regular hour each and every night, the girl who has a pasty complexion should look into the matter for her general health. A good complexion is impossible without perfect health, for health is the one great beautifier of even the plainest featured girl. It gives her that rosy flush of perfect health which is beauty—real, true beauty.

The girl, though, who has a muddled complexion can help matters along by taking a beauty cup of hot water half an hour before each meal and one before going to bed at night. This water should be hot, but not too hot (extreme heat is injurious to the stomach and the stomach is the weak point of the girl with a poor complexion), and yet not lukewarm either. Choose the happy medium and you will be safe in your beauty drink.

This, too, if good results are to come of it, must be taken regularly at the same hour each and every day.

Let it be understood, then, from this little talk that it is not so much what a girl does every other night or so when she feels like it, to improve her complexion, but what she does each and every night, that counts in this great fight for beauty, which is the birthright of every American girl and woman. Seek health, then, and seek it regularly, and this beauty will be yours.

The Beautiful Mouth.

To begin with, beautiful lips are mobile and flexible. No matter how perfect their contour, lips that are fixed and tight are never attractive. Then, too, holding the lips in a fixed position quickly ages the face and induces lines in it even less attractive than the line or the mouth. Persons who make constant use of their lips—in laughter, conversation or singing—preserve the charm of youth and mobility in them that is not apt to be apparent in those given to silence. This alone indicates the necessity for exercise, and all beauty culturists advise exercise of the lips to preserve a youthful face and keep the mouth flexible and attractive.

Marie Montaigne makes this point in an article in Harper's Bazar, and she goes on to say:

"Odd as it may seem, it becomes quite impossible to cherish irritating thoughts when the corners of the lips are turned up. Inseparably little sprites of happy memories come dancing into the mind, and the lines about the mouth smooth out or take on sweet curves. Laughter is essential to a pretty mouth—not the constant laughter that stretches the lips and lines the cheeks, but that merriment which keeps the lips flexible and drives away furrows of care."

Exercise to Keep Young.

Marcel Prevost, the French novelist, in speaking before an audience of fashionable women recently, said that the best method of combating advancing age was to develop muscle.

As long as persons only told them that sport was good for health women were indifferent, he said, but as soon as some one asserted that sport meant youthfulness women took it up with impetuous enthusiasm.

M. Prevost severely condemned the practice of attempting to reduce the figure to slender proportions by tight lacing or dieting. He also criticised the use of rouge, with which women colored their lips, saying that it had nothing in common with the redness of the natural lips, while the carmine and beauty lotions they put on their cheeks produced an unnatural bluish slate colored complexion.

The Burbank Estate

There Were Many Claimants For It.

By MILLARD MALTBIE

Joseph Burbank, from the time he was twelve years old till he was sixty two, worked and saved and struggled to make himself independent. He thought until he was forty that he couldn't afford to marry; then he took a wife largely because he needed some one for a housekeeper and, all things considered, it would be better to give the position to a wife than to any other woman.

A son was born to the pair and served as a link between his father and the rest of human beings. But this was largely because in this son the father had some one to succeed him in continuing the piling up of property. From the boy's birth till he was twelve the old man looked forward to his following in his father's footsteps and MERIWETHER READ THE UNSIGNED WILL. at that age proposed that he should begin where that father had begun, by becoming an office boy.

The child, aided by his mother, headed the old man off for three years. When Mrs. Burbank died, the boy wished to go to college, and his father objected. Mrs. Burbank had a few thousand dollars of her own which she left to her son. Soon after this money was received by him he had an altercation with his father concerning the matter of his going to work and the next day disappeared from under the paternal roof.

The old man got on as well as he could for a few years by himself, then since he was getting old, told Rosa Blair, a girl about seventeen years old, that if she would take care of him and his house as long as he lived he would leave her his fortune. Rosa accepted the offer and for ten years devoted herself to her employer. During the last five or six years of this term the old man was ill and peevish and generally disagreeable. Rosa Blair felt at times that she must give up the care of him or her health would break down. Indeed, she finally concluded to do so, but when she announced her intention to Burbank he moaned and whined and begged her to remain. Pity for the lonely old man, whose suffering she supposed was the cause of his acerbity, induced her to recall her decision.

Burbank never spoke of the son who had left him, but his housekeeper heard of him through others and very naturally condemned him for remaining away from his father in the latter's old age. When a newspaper one day contained an account of the shooting of a Mark Burbank in the far west, with certain statements that seemed to correspond with the absent son, it was generally supposed that the young man was dead.

Old Burbank wore out his physical forces by permitting his acerbity to gnaw upon them, and everybody said that Rosa Blair had at last come to her reward. What was the surprise of all when it was learned that he had died without a will. At first it was supposed that one would be found, but his attorney stated that at the time of the old man's death a will had been drawn and was ready for him to sign. He had put off signing it from day to day, not realizing his condition, and when his life ended it went out like a candle.

Some thought that the reason of the delay was that, not knowing that his son might some day turn up, he was at a loss to know how to leave his property and could not come to a decision.

No sooner was it known that Burbank had died intestate than kinsmen started up like a covey of birds stumbled on by a huntsman. There were Burbanks and Newmans and Parkers and Joneses, all related to the deceased. There were even Meriwethers, who claimed kinship with the late Mrs. Burbank, though how they could expect to inherit did not appear. After the rush of claim filing was over there were forty-three persons, each ready to receive his or her portion of the Burbank estate.

Among the Meriwethers was a man calling himself MacDonald Meriwether. He appeared like many of the other claimants, who seemed to spring out of the ground, but before putting in a claim he consulted a lawyer and, after the interview, told his friends that Mrs. Burbank having died before her husband had no interest in the estate, and therefore none of her relatives could inherit as heirs at law.

However, Mr. Meriwether, having heard of the injustice that had been done Rosa Blair, made her acquaintance and advised her to put in a bill for services to the deceased large enough to give her a goodly share of the estate. She had a letter from Mr. Burbank offering to make her his heir on the conditions named. Meriwether told her that this letter might enable her to make a compromise with the other heirs, or a bill of, say, $3,000 a year for the period of her service, might be allowed by the courts.

Miss Blair finally consented to put in a bill for $1,000 a year, which, with interest, would give her an amount to produce an income on which she might live comfortably. The claim was filed, but so great was the howl set up by the heirs against the claimant that the poor girl withdrew it.

Meriwether, having espoused her cause, became further interested and declared that she should get her dues. He went to the lawyer who had had charge of Joseph Burbank's legal affairs and had a long interview with him. Meriwether asked to see a copy of the will that had been drawn up and ready to sign. The attorney showed it to him, and when Meriwether proposed to call together the heirs-at-law, show them what the intention of Joseph Burbank had been and endeavor to induce them to make a compromise with each other and Rosa Blair, the lawyer consented and wrote an opinion that without a compromise the estate would likely be eaten up by litigation.

Armed with these two documents, Meriwether called the meeting. He had no sooner risen to address those assembled than a man called out: "What interest have you in this business anyway?"

"I have become interested in behalf of Miss Blair."

"Reckon," called out a woman, "you want to marry her and git it all for yourself."

Without noticing this last remark Meriwether read the unsigned will. It left the estate for ten years in the hands of trustees for the benefit of Rosa Blair. It within that time his son should return and claim to inherit the estate should be divided between him and Miss Blair. If at the expiration of ten years he had not returned the property was to be given to her. Meriwether then stated that he was authorized by Miss Blair to withdraw her claim on being paid the sum of $15,000.

A dozen persons claimed the floor, each intending to speak against making any such compromise. After all had spoken and only one other person had arisen to speak in behalf of a compromise Meriwether announced that, as Miss Blair's representative, he withdrew the proposition and would make another. Miss Blair would not settle for less than $25,000.

This caused a hubbub. Cries of "Bluff!" "Extortion!" "We must have an attorney!" "Fight it out!" were heard all over the room. When a lull came Meriwether made another announcement. Miss Blair's figures had gone up to $50,000!

Amid still greater confusion a man arose and proposed that the meeting organize as heirs at law of the Joseph Burbank estate and appoint a committee to procure counsel and prosecute their claims till they had received every cent of their just inheritance. He was followed by another, who asked for subscriptions with which to pay legal expenses. This threw a damper on the meeting, only a few subscriptions of a few dollars each being offered. When it was evident that a snag had been struck, Meriwether arose and said:

"My friends, it is time this meeting adjourned. I am the MacDonald Meriwether Burbank mentioned in this unsigned will and the only child of the testator. My mother, whose maiden name was Meriwether, being dead, I am the sole heir at law of the estate. I will not trouble you to make a compromise with Miss Blair. I will make one myself."

This stunned the assembly to silence till a woman's shrill voice cried out: "I suppose you'll compromise by marrying her!"

"That's exactly what I intend to do I am happy to announce that we are already engaged."

The meeting broke up sullenly, some having a hope that the man could not prove his identity, but most of those present believed that he would not have made such a claim unless he could substantiate it.

When Burbank heard of his father's death he concluded to go home incognito and learn of the situation. It was soon made plain to him, and before claiming his estate he proposed to derive some amusement from the numerous heirs who were bent on casting aside the claim of the only person who was really entitled to any part of the estate. He was so charmed with Rosa Blair that he resolved to pay her more than liberally for her services to his father and later asked her to be his wife. It was not till after she had consented that he saw his father's unsigned will. Then he showed it to her and made himself known.

Such is the true story of the Burbank estate. It has been told many a time and in many forms in the place where the scene was laid.

MacDonald Burbank and his wife made good use of the property, which increased enormously, endowing several charitable institutions.

RURAL SCHOOL GARDENS.

Plant a Border All Around the Grounds.

Country schools usually stand in a good sized lot of from one to several acres. Such an area will allow of extensive planting, and in view of the dearth of trees in our landscapes it is well to provide a grove for school and other plants.

Across the rear of the lot trees may be planted solidly, either in rows or variously disposed. These should be at sufficient distances apart to allow each to develop its individuality and provide natural shade of varying degrees of intensity.

It may be that strong winds are constantly blowing from one direction, and if this be so a protective border plantation should be set out on the windward side. If the grounds are sufficiently large this border plantation should extend around the grounds on all sides, but the planting should not be in rows, but a natural method of grouping be followed, yet enough trees on all sides to provide needed shade in summer. No planting should be done except on the borders. All the open space possible should be preserved in the yard proper.

WHY WE SHOULD PLANT STREET TREES.

City Forester Prost of Chicago gives twelve reasons why a city or town should plant trees. They are the following:

- Trees are beautiful in form and color, inspiring a constant appreciation of nature.
- Trees enhance the beauty of architecture.
- Trees create sentiment, love of country, state, city and home.
- Trees have an educational influence upon citizens of all ages, especially children.
- Trees encourage outdoor life.
- Trees purify the air.
- Trees cool the air in summer and radiate warmth in winter.
- Trees improve climate and conserve soil and moisture.
- Trees furnish resting places and shelter for birds.
- Trees increase the value of real estate.
- Trees protect the pavement from the heat of the sun.
- Trees counteract adverse conditions of city life.

Various matters of importance were discussed, among others "Publicity for San Bruno"—let people know who and where we are. Also the matter of removing the flume on San Mateo avenue. Action will soon be taken to ask the supervisors to press final settlement of the matter. A set of resolutions were adopted to be sent to Assemblyman Brown and Senator Flint calling their attention to bill permitting the growth of San Francisco, as follows: "Whereas, a bill permitting the growth of San Francisco down the Peninsula has been introduced simultaneously in the senate and assembly; and, Whereas, We feel that the passage of said bill will be of great mutual advantage to San Francisco and San Mateo county; now, therefore, be it Resolved, that we, the central committee of the Federal Improvement Clubs of San Bruno, do, most heartily and unanimously, endorse said bill and respectfully request you to use every means in your power to secure its passage. SOCIAL EVENTS.

The Woman's Social and Improvement Club postponed its regular Friday meeting on account of Good Friday, but will meet March 28th with Mrs. Venable.

Miss Alice Valentine gave a party to about forty of her friends at Ray Meade's bachelor headquarters. The evening was spent in the usual good time games, dancing and singing.

The Huntington Park Coffee Club had a very enjoyable meeting last Thursday with Mrs. Robt. Cryer. Dainty refreshments were served and an enjoyable time was had by all present.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Noyer of fourth addition gave a five hundred party Thursday evening to a few of their friends. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Loose, Miss Servert, Mr. and Mrs. Flynn, Mr. Bewley and Mr. and Mrs. Holliday.

The Brotherhood of American Yeoman observed St. Patrick's Day last Tuesday evening in Green's Hall. After the business of the evening was transacted they participated in Irish songs and dances. At 10:30 the grand march was formed and proceeded to the banquet hall which was decorated in the grand old Irish colors, while from conspicuous places floated three silk Irish flags. An elaborate menu consisting of four most famous and substantial Irish dishes were served. The ladies were costumed in the Irish colors, while the gentlemen wore huge ties of good old Ireland.

Frank Jacobsen and sister Mrs. Madsen gave a farewell party for Miss Carlson and Miss Margaret Jacobsen last Saturday evening at the Jacobsen home in Huntington Park. About four o'clock Sunday morning the crowd started to walk to Millbrae, serenading all the residents along the way with the grand old Irish songs, until the people awakened from a sound sleep with the thought that it was St. Patrick's Day in the morning instead of Sunday. At Millbrae they decided they were to tired to walk back, waited for a car. After an hour's waiting the United Railroads car started for the city, and the crowd, almost frozen stiff with the cold and after several attempts managed to climb aboard for the home of Frank Jacobsen to thaw out. It is presumed there were no fatalities, as all were able to attend the surprise on Mr. and Mrs. Emerick the same evening, and at last closing with a grand finale with Mr. and Mrs. Moore Monday evening. Miss Carlson and Miss Jacobsen left Tuesday on the 12:10 p. m. boat for Eureka for the remainder of this year.

KING GEORGE OF GREECE IS SHOT

Bullet Passes Through Heart Causing Death in Few Minutes

King George of Greece was assassinated while walking in the streets of Salonika the afternoon of March 18th. The assassin came suddenly at the King and fired one shot from a seven-chamber revolver. The tragedy caused intense excitement. Schinas was seized immediately and overpowered. The wounded King was lifted into a carriage and was hurried into the Pa-Pafon Hospital. He was still breathing when placed in the carriage, but died before reaching the hospital.

The King was accompanied only by an aid de camp, Lieutenant-Colonel Francoudis. The assassin came suddenly at the King and fired one shot from a seven-chamber revolver. The tragedy caused intense excitement. Schinas was seized immediately and overpowered. The wounded King was lifted into a carriage and was hurried into the Pa-Pafon Hospital. He was still breathing when placed in the carriage, but died before reaching the hospital.

Prince Nicholas, the King's third son, and other officers hurried to the hospital. On his arrival Prince Nicholas summoned the officers, and, speaking in a voice choked with sobs, said:

"It is my deep grief to have to announce to you the death of our beloved King, and to invite you to swear fidelity to your new sovereign, King Constantine."

The assassin of the King is an evil-looking fellow, about 40 years old. On being arrested he refused to explain his motive for the crime. In reply to an officer who asked him whether he had no pity for his country, announced that he was against governments. Schinas maintained a perfectly impassive demeanor. Precautions were taken at once throughout the city and perfect order is being maintained.

Prince Nicholas is the only member of the royal family in Salonika. Mourning emblems are displayed everywhere. The Greek Governor has issued a proclamation announcing that the oath of fealty to King Constantine has been taken.

The Danish court will assume mourning for a long period.

The strained relations between the Greek and Bulgarian contingents at Salonika gave Greece the greatest fear that the assassination of King George might have been incident to a clash between the allies; but a message received at midnight dispelled such apprehension by identifying the assassin as a Greek degenerate. Another dispatch referred to him as demented.

The British Foreign Office, Marlborough House, where the Queen Mother Alexandra, sister of the dead King, is residing, and the Greek legation were besieged by reporters.

The Queen was informed of the assassination of the King on board the steamer on which she was returning from a visit to Prevasa. Immense crowds thronged the streets. All the theaters were closed, and flags were at half-mast.

The greatest sympathy is felt for Queen Alexandra. King George of Greece was her favorite brother. She only recently suffered another, although less tragic blow, in the death of her brother, King Frederick of Denmark. The Princess Victoria broke the news to her. Queen Alexandra is said to be prostrated, and King George and Queen Mary go from Windsor to give her what consolation they can.

King George of Greece was a frequent visitor to London, his last visit being on the occasion of King Edward's funeral, when he met Colonel Theodore Roosevelt and became exceedingly friendly with the ex-President.

George I, the murdered King of Greece, was born December 24, 1845, the second son of Christian IX, King of Denmark. After serving several years in the Danish army, George I was chosen King of Greece immediately following the deposition of King Otto in 1862. The National Parliament of Greece in 1863 conferred the crown on Prince William of Denmark, as George was then called, who, with the concurrence of his own family and the consent of the great powers, assumed the throne of Greece as George I. He was married at St. Petersburg to Princess Olga, daughter of Grand Duke Constantine, October 27, 1867.

In 1909 George I greatly tested the temper of his subjects by appointing his two sons to the rank of General in the Greek army, regardless of their unfitness for the positions. He again offended the people when, in order to appease the militarists, he suddenly deprived the unfortunate young men of their rank and position and sent them ignominiously into exile. It was then thought that his throne was tottering, but, by several acts which appeased the outraged public, the King regained favor.

King George was in his sixty-eighth year, and had ruled fifty years. An attempt was made in 1898 to assassinate him, but it was frustrated.

Of all the crowned heads of Europe, King George of Greece and his Danish brother, King Frederick, who was overtaken by a fatal illness while strolling in the streets of Hamburg alone, were among the most unostentatious. He had many friends among the diplomats of the various nations, and some of his warmest friendships were with untitled persons.

King George had a particular fondness for a good dinner and a game of cards, and was known to all the foremost restaurateurs in the continental capitals and watering places. He was popularly credited with being rather easy-going in the matter of hard work.

The King during his reign, and particularly in the latter years, passed through many dangers, but always went about either alone or attended by one or two aids. When he was struck down arrangements were being completed for his jubilee, and it seemed that this celebration would occur in a period of national triumph.

Most of King George's property, to the value of possibly $20,000,000, is in Denmark. He was an excellent business man and made a fortune dealing in real estate. He had a palace and several houses in Copenhagen, which he bought cheaply, and which afterward greatly increased in value. He also had many houses in Paris. His money and securities were all kept in banks in Paris, Vienna and London, as the stability of the Greek throne was not firm enough at times to encourage him to keep his wealth in Greece.

The King was friendly toward journalists, and Danish newspaper men found him easy to interview. He spoke freely at times of European political secrets.

Crown Prince Constantine has been in active command of the Greek forces in the Balkan campaign. At the head of the Greek army, Constantine captured the fortress of Janina, with its garrison of 32,000 men. By the right of succession, Constantine now becomes King of Greece.

Prince George, the second son of the murdered King, was born July 19, 1890. He is the most beloved Prince of all the Greek royal family and of the strongest character.

The marriage of George to the richest woman in Europe, the Princess Marie Bonaparte, created a sensation in the courts of Europe. The marriage took place November 21, 1907, in Paris.

The Princess Marie is a distant relative of former Attorney-General Bonaparte of the United States. She inherited a fortune of $13,000,000 from her maternal grandfather, Monte Carlo Blanc.

The union of an heiress with the great royal family of Greece was an event hailed with joy by the nation.

TURKEY REJECTS TERMS OF PEACE

Conditions Demanded by Allies Considered Too Extravagant

There is no prospect for acceptance by Turkey of the peace terms as proposed by the allies. Dispatches from Constantinople say that the leading members of the Committee of Union and Progress have decided that the conditions could not be accepted, and it is understood that the Council of Ministers has adopted the same view.

At other capitals and among the ambassadors in London the allies' demands are considered extravagant, especially with regard to the payment of indemnity and the cession of Scutari and the Aegean Islands.

In the meantime the agitation against Bulgaria continues in Greece. The Greeks in Thrace and Eastern Macedonia have sent a petition to Athens against their incorporation by Bulgaria. Premier Venizelos, in reply, boldly declared that he long ago had notified the allies that Greece laid no claim to Thrace. This announcement, which was made in the Chamber of Deputies, aroused vigorous protests.

A dispatch from Belgrade says that anti-Bulgarian articles also are becoming common in the Serbian newspapers, while the Greek and Serbian Cabinets are becoming very intimate, and it is reported that they have already concluded a defensive treaty.

With the improvements in weather conditions the armies in the Near East have become more active, although thus far no news of a pitched battle of any importance has come through. According to Constantinople reports conditions in the Gallipoli peninsula are quiet.

The Greeks continue to gather in stray bodies of Turks. Near Amis the Greek cavalry captured two Turkish battalions comprising 1570 men and thirty officers.

Pellagra is more prevalent than is ordinarily supposed, even by physicians practicing in pellagrous communities. Assistant Surgeon R. M. Grimm of the United States Public Health Service says in a report on the results of an investigation in several Southern States. Because of its widespread existence in certain districts, he urges a sweeping inquiry to unravel the cause. Dr. Grimm found more cases among whites than among negroes, and women of both races seemed to be more susceptible than men. The death rate was highest among negroes. More cases, he said, occurred under conditions of poverty than of comfort, and more under conditions of comfort than affluence. The rural districts seemed less affected than small towns.
